WATERBURY

Saturday afternoon an exhibit by the boy scouts was given in the chapel of the Vermont state hospital for the patients, they being divided into two sections. A talk on the principles of the boy scout organization was given by Scoutmaster W. L. Bolcourt. The scout oath was given, the scout law also, and one boy was sworn in to membership. Exhibits were given in badger-pulling, coaster fights, a splendid demonstration of the fireman's lift given by Charlie Edwards. The games of dodge ball and spot the cone pleased the patients, while the scout yell was frequently heard. This was a pleasing Fourth of July celebration for the patients and showed very strongly the work done by Rev. Mr. Bolcourt with the boys. The money for the exhibit and proceeds from the ice cream sold that afternoon swelled very materially the Camp Ahnaki fund.

The home of Miss Griffith was beautifully decorated in pink and green, there being an abundance of pink roses. A large bowl of these was in the center of the table and pink and green streamers ran to the corners. The ices were pink and the cakes heart shape. For the shower there was a net work of pink and green cobweb which gave the guests exercise. At the end of the pink strings were gifts for Miss Dickie and at the end of the green strings favors for the guests. This was one of the most delightful pre-wedding affairs given in town for a long time.
